A generation ago
my young daughter, wearing her nylon string
Turk's-head bracelet, inspired me to create them in gold.

The handmade box clasp, visible in this photo, is entirely on the underside of each bracelet and is invisible when the bracelet is worn.

When the 16th century visionary Leonardo da Vinci made sketches with Turk's-head weave borders I wonder if it ever occurred to him that 400 plus years later the same design would appear handwoven in gold and platinum, an art we initiated, developed and perfected 28 years ago?

Dear Tony:

The necklace belongs in a museum,
not around an old neck — though that's its destiny for a while.

Sincerely,

Our authentic stud link anchor chain is literally handmade, link by link, with each link containing a center bar (stud). This fact easily distinguishes it from look-alike jewelry, which has the center bar only in every other link, permitting manufacture by machine.

Our Authentic
Stud Link Anchor Chain

Our Brummel hook clasps are derived from my experience with them while racing Wianno Seniors (circa 1955). They were the fitting of choice for attaching the halyard, sheet and guy to the spinnaker head and clews. It occurred to me their reliability for not unexpectedly disengaging or snagging on rigging would make them ideal jewelry clasps. They engage and disengage by holding precisely at 90° to each other.

Authentic Stud Link Anchor Chain, with a different angle of repose from standard chain, was developed to prohibit fouling and adds 18% to the breaking strength.

 Roman Numerals With A Meaning
 I•IV•III
 I Love You By The Numbers

Minots Ledge Light sits on a rock ledge about a mile north of Cohasset, Massachusetts. Since 1894 its flash sequence has been 1 - 4 - 3 spaced over thirty seconds and local lovers claim it spells "I Love You" because there is one letter in "I," four letters in "Love" and three letters in "You." This is the inspiration for our 1•4•3 jewelry.

Our Compass Rose and Compass Jewelry

All jewelry shown actual size

Our compass jewelry originates from the government issued parachute pack (SRU-16/P) required for all pilots.

Our compass rose jewelry incorporates an authentic, jeweled bearing Ritchie compass, encompassed in gold. In the closed position, you predominately see the gold compass rose with just a glimpse of the compass underneath. Pivot the compass rose to the side to reveal the compass and find your direction.

Our Telltale Compass

is designed to be read looking up from below the instrument. Manufactured exclusively for us by Ritchie Navigation to our specifications, this has been by far the most successful non-jewelry (except for its jeweled bearing) design ever offered. Our traditional, externally gimballed, bronze masterpiece is the right size (3" dial) for most installations and is designed to be installed either on a bulkhead or overhead as shown. Very salty and thoroughly tested aboard our Noeta and Pukka.

Our Logical Logbook, envisioned in 1975, is not a flimsy affair: Two hundred blank pages of 100% rag paper carefully and permanently bound in an 8 1/2"x11" cotton sailcloth cover is as impervious to weather as paper can be. Never worry about mildew or moisture and easy to maintain. Use it as a scrapbook, guest book or diary. Omissions impossible. Each book has a small Center of Effort on the spine to make it readily recognizable on your bookshelf. Please allow 6 weeks for personalization.

With well over 200 hand carved feathers in different planes, this bird throws light like faceted stones. Maine's Great Blue Herons nest along the coast and on several secluded islands, but mostly near beaver ponds or lakes. Their huge nests usually are found in the tops of the tallest trees. Carving the model for this jewelry required many hours spent in a canoe observing the bird's shape in all forms of flight.

The incomparable Harry Houdini believed magic was an art and I think our undulating jewelry would have mesmerized the master showman as well as it will you. Exhaustive efforts with a still camera failed to capture the bracelet's wave-like motion. While I promise the weave is perfectly uniform, it is hard to believe.

Elephant Hair - Equestrian

According to a 1200-year-old legend, the wearer of an elephant hair bracelet is protected from illness, taken out of harms way and attains great fortune. The knots represent the powerful earth forces and the strands symbolize the yearly seasons. Moving the knots along the strands is thought to create a balance and blend between earth and nature, thus assuring the wearer to be in perfect sync with nature's rhythms.

Elephant hair bracelets are very collectible and I remember when the real McCoy was $2. at A&F in NYC. An elephant hair bracelet was Amelia Earhart's favorite good luck piece, which she did not wear on her last flight.

My beloved brother, John A. Correa, our family everyologist, has submitted a story about "Llanfihangel", our childhood horse:

Before our father went to law school he spent several years in a monastery in the Brechfa Forest. His job was to care for the little ponies that the monastery rented to a Welsh mining company. As he was one of the few people at the Llanfihangel Monastery who could read and write, the monsignor asked him to compose an agreement with the mining company.

While he loved those ponies, he enjoyed this work writing contracts more than mucking out the stalls. Soon the word spread in the town of Llanfihangel and more and more people came to him. His work became quite profitable for the monastery, but he definitely needed more formal training. He was the first person the monks ever sent to law school. Later, when Mother and Dad got a horse, Dad insisted he be named Llanfihangel after the town and his old beloved monastery.

This concept (pages 50-55) is a cornerstone to our undertakings. Each piece is a distinct design with no fanfare. Please do not be concerned by what appears to be an almost nonexistent setting, as this is an important and vital part of our design. In fact our triangular shaped 14k white gold framework, along with the four pronged diamond mountings (please see page 52 for illustration), is very strong yet nearly invisible when the jewelry is worn thereby creating the illusion of free floating diamonds.

All diamond constellation pins are photographed without the hinged pin back because when the jewelry is worn the back is behind the clothing and does not show.

Our Diamond Astrological Jewelry

All jewelry shown actual size

*Each diamond is proportional to the magnitude of the corresponding star.
What appears to be an almost nonexistent setting is in fact very strong and is an important and vital part of our design. Please see page 52 for illustration of setting.*

Our hand cut, natural quartz crystal prism pendant and earrings are polished to perfection. Each crystal is supported by our hand-drawn 18k wire, providing a strong framework, without distracting from the light-gathering properties of the correctly proportioned crystal. The pendant has a separate thimble inserted in the eye and then whipped with a smaller gold seizing wire.
